

Population genetic approaches to complex trait mapping

Jonathan Pritchard PhD

Department of Human Genetics

The University of Chicago

Abstract:

In this talk I discuss how population structure can impact case-control approaches to complex trait mapping, and statistical approaches for controlling for unknown population structure. I also describe how these methods can be extended to allow gene mapping in recently admixed populations.