4. Entrant(s) represent that all work submitted to the competition is their own, original work and that for any part of the work submitted that is not their original work, they have been given the express, written permission by the copyright owner to use the material as part of the work submitted for the KoronisFest competition and for any use made thereafter by UAB, as described in the KoronisFest entry form. Further, as a condition of entry into the competition, Entrant(s) agree to indemnify and hold harmless The Board of Trustees of The University of Alabama, and each of its divisions, officers, employees and agents, for any and all uses made of the work submitted to the KoronisFest competition. A copy of the written permission of the copyright owner(s) must be included with the entry form if the work submitted to the competition is not solely the original work of the entrant(s).

5. Entrant(s) represent and warrant that Entrant(s) 1) own(s) the film and /or poster and all rights in it; and 2) have/(has) permission to use the image, name, biographical information, physical or mental health conditions and other private information of each person who may be identified in the film.

8. Selected films will be shown along with the awards ceremony on Thursday, April 8, 2010. These films may also be shown on the University’s website and may be broadcast by the University or third parties.

9. The sole compensation for submission and grant of the rights under this Agreement is consideration of the submission for inclusion in the KoronisFest and any award that may be granted. University will pay Entrant(s) no additional compensation nor be liable to Entrant(s) under any circumstances, including damages arising from the University’s own negligence.

10. Entrant(s) will keep at least one copy of the film and/or poster. The University has no obligation to return any submission, and will not be liable if the submitted film and/or poster is lost or damaged.

11. Entrant(s) may identify the University and the KoronisFest in resumes and include the Film in portfolios, but cannot use the University’s name or marks (including colors and music) to promote the Film and/or Poster or the work of Entrant(s). Entrant(s) name(s) shall be included in Film and/or Poster credits.
